Flexibility is our Middle Name

Our simple engagement model makes it Super Simple to get the skills you need where you need them. The Ortera® team bring their broad skill base to your technology project – you need a full solution design? A project managed end to end? A full team deployed as a one-stop delivery shop? No problem.

Perhaps you only need a few hours from the right professional to keep your project headed in the right direction – piece of cake. If you need to move from a little bit of help on a Monday to a full-blown project team by Friday, that's what our flexible model was created for! Engage the right people exactly when you need them without paying staff to be on standby as other phases of project progress. When you need us, we'll be there.

One of our days is worth Five of Theirs™

Ortera® delight in putting the competition to shame. While they get weighed down with the trappings of big business, spiralling overheads and ever-increasing costs, Ortera® stay limber – able to react instantly to the shifting demands of your business, delivering the true value of quality solutions in optimal time.

When you join us, you'll see what an effective and professional team led by experienced technologists REALLY looks like! No more exchanging emails, endlessly re-designing, re-planning and generally making a pay by the hour meal of it. We'll get the job done efficiently, and first time.

Why Ortera?

Our Professional Services portfolio offers a comprehensive delivery model, from Requirements and Solution Design, through Programme & Project Delivery to Service Delivery. Flexible resourcing means you only pay for the skills you need when you need them.

Included in our consultancy services are Management, Governance, Communications and PMO capabilities that in the engagement models of our competitors would result in more dedicated people at a much higher cost. A straightforward cost model with substantial savings offered for Delivery Services contract customers!
